

IF YOU LIKE RAGTIME MUSIC... or, MAYBE, you're already a ragtime fan...

- You know a little about this music form, and want to know more;
- You didn't know there is a group of Indiana residents that get together regularly to enjoy listening to ragtime.

The Classic Ragtime Society - Indiana
A registered not-for-profit organization

The Society is made up of a group of people that includes doctors, garage mechanics, secretaries, CEO's, students, lawyers and retirees who enjoy getting together to listen to and learn more about early american music, especially ragtime in its many forms, and the era that produced it.

at 2 PM. Most of the meetings feature concerts given by professional and semi-professional ragtime musicians. On the odd numbered months, there are more informal "listening sessions" held in member's homes, listening to mostly recorded ragtime.

Many members are from Indianapolis, but some come from as far away as Chicago, Cincinnati and Dayton. Most central states do not have ragtime groups. We are fortunate to have one here in Indianapolis

At both types of these gatherings there is always an "open piano" time for the amateurs among the group to sit at the piano and play. HOWEVER, you do not have to play the piano yourself to join the Society.

MEETINGS

These are held on the first Sunday afternoon of the even numbered months - February, April, June, August, October and December, beginning

OTHER ACTIVITIES

There is an annual weekend festival in August, and occasionally a separate concert open to the public.

Dues are $15 for single membership and $25.00 for family membership per year. Members receive a bi-monthly newsletter with information about upcoming meetings, ragtime events, artists, etc.
